

Test [1–15]. Briefings Funct. Genom.

References

- [1] Normal Article Reference. A one word journal title in first position: part I. OneWord, pages 1–1000, 2010.
- [2] Normal Article Reference. Diacritic mark in the title. Biol. Biol. Biol., pages 1–1000, 2010.
- [3] Article Reference. An exception to a partial match rule. Head, Hands, Hear. & Heart, pages 1–1000, 2010.
- [4] Normal Article Reference. The title of a good normal reference abbreviated. Tes. J. Ref. Inf., pages 1–1000, 2010.
- [5] Normal Article Reference. Test journal title already abbreviated in the first word. Phys. Rev. Lett., pages 1–1000, 2010.
- [6] Normal Article Reference. A second one word journal title after another one abbreviated: part II. OneWord, pages 1–1000, 2010.
- [7] Normal Article Reference. Journal title without abbreviation. Two Words, pages 1–1000, 2010.
- [8] Normal Article Reference. Journal title entered: “Reference Information”. Ref. Inf., pages 1–1000, 2010.
- [9] Normal Article Reference. Journal title entered: “Information”. Information, pages 1–1000, 2010.
- [10] Normal Article Reference. Keep the period after a non-abbreviated journal title: One word. MyAbbrev., pages 1–1000, 2010.
- [11] Normal Article Reference. Keep the period after a non-abbreviated journal title: Two words. Two MyAbbrev., pages 1–1000, 2010.
- [12] Normal Article Reference. With the option oneword, journal title containing a end period are not abbreviated. Information., pages 1–1000, 2010.
- [13] Command Article Reference. Test of the journal title custom command. Journal title entered: “\tjri”. Tes. J. Ref. Inf., pages 1000–1001, 2010.

- [14] Abbreviated Article Reference. Journal title entered: “Test J. of Reference Inf.”. Tes. J. Ref. Inf., pages 1002–1050, 2010.
- [15] Symbol Article Reference. The title of a good symbol-containing reference. Symb. & Demons., pages 9998–9999, 2010.